What does Sprint deliver?

Sprint is the ground-breaking new professional development programme for undergraduate women with a special version available to address the issues for postgraduate students and researchers. It addresses the study and career issues faced by women at university and was developed in collaboration with the University of Cambridge and more recently, with the University of Oxford.

For all participants, the results stem from the objectives they set and tend to fall under three headings:

Study: Achieve results such as improved visibility, concentration and effectiveness in tutorials, better time management for revision and essay writing, less study stress, and improved confidence.

Career: Sharpen career goals, raise aspirations and take advantage of work shadowing and coaching opportunities that are often offered by corporate sponsors.

Personal: Work through difficult relationships, improve fitness and gain a better and healthier work/life balance.

The Springboard Consultancy
Sprint is for undergraduate women of all ages, from all backgrounds, and stages in their professional lives and study. Regardless of subject, department or career aspirations, Sprint will help women achieve their goals.

The postgraduate programme gives women an opportunity to meet and work with a range of postgraduates and take a holistic view of their personal development. Inspired by speakers and panelists working in a diversity of different fields, women find space to plan their next steps for their future.

Sprint adds value to the overall experience for undergraduates and postgraduates, improves employability, and helps to ensure that each woman has the best possible chance to develop her full potential.

The programme is designed to be flexible to accommodate academic terms, study pressures and research schedules. It consists of the following:

A comprehensive folder, including all the material for the programme and additional online learning tools.

Four action-packed one-day workshops.

The provision of real, relevant and inspiring role models.

The encouragement of effective networks within the group.

Opportunities to engage with corporate sponsors.
4 Outcomes that make a difference

90% Of Sprint participants say that meeting and working with different women was extremely useful.

75% Of Sprint participants say they are now better at setting realistic goals and action points.

70% Of Sprint participants say the programme improved their effectiveness in studying.

70% Of Sprint participants say they are managing their time better and therefore working more productively.

5 Our clients

“I am so glad I participated as it was different to any of my previous development skill sessions. Very interactive, practical and social. I feel it has really impacted my confidence and I can certainly attribute a lot of my job application success to Sprint!”

Haruka Kobayashi, University of Cambridge, Natural Sciences

“I’ve learned that I should never take a second position when I can take the first. Men are trained to step up and women to step down. I want to step up.”

Masters, Oxford University

“Sprint has been an eye opener that I am not alone when faced with certain issues and by supporting one another we can learn a lot. I’m inspired and confident knowing that with hard work and perseverance anything can be achieved. It also has made me think about investing in myself and the impact it will have on everyone around me which will allow me to feel happier and more content.”

Asha Mailapali, Undergraduate, Kingston University
